

Dwight Sullivan is the Senior Associate Deputy General Counsel for Military Justice and Personnel Policy in the Department of Defense Office of General Counsel. He is also an adjunct faculty member at the George Washington University Law School and author of CAPTURING AGUINALDO: THE DARING RAID TO SEIZE THE PHILIPPINE PRESIDENT AT THE DAWN OF THE AMERICAN CENTURY (2022) (forthcoming). He is a retired colonel in the United States Marine Corps Reserve. His previous positions include chief defense counsel of the military commission system, senior litigation counsel and acting chief of the Air Force Appellate Defense Division, and managing attorney of the American Civil Liberties of Maryland's Baltimore office. He spent the first 10 years of his legal career as an active duty Marine Corps judge advocate.

Dwight is an elected member of the American Law Institute, co-author of three editions of a military justice casebook, co-author of the annual Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces rules guide, and the author of numerous law review articles on military and Maryland law. He holds a J.D. from the University of Virginia School of Law, a B.A. and M.A. from the University of Maryland College Park, and an LL.M. from The Judge Advocate General's School, U.S. Army. He lives on Maryland's Broadneck Peninsula.